from the Baron and Baroness

Unto all Good Gentles of this talented Barony do Byron and Ariella send Greetings!

This month marks the one year anniversary of our investiture as your Baron and Baroness. Please take a moment to think of how we have done in this position and what you would like to see us do in the year ahead and then let us know, directly or indirectly through a friend.

On a much sadder note, this year has seen many Barony members lose loved ones. Our condolences go out to Her Royal Highness, Countess Morgen, for the loss of her father and THL Michelina Cenomani de Trento for the loss of her sister in this last month.

Though we regret the Baronial Birthday event could not happen this year, we hope it may next year and thank many who labored to plan that event and Highland Games. We will next be attending the Sunderoak Golden Chain Tournament event one week from this writing. We look forward to our Baronial reception the middle Sunday of Pennsic at 5pm in Æthelmearc Royal, THL Hrefna in heppna Thorgrimsdottir's elevation and Baronial Court at that reception, and other activities with members of the Barony this Pennsic. THL Odriana vander Brugghe has volunteered to help organize the Baronial encampment and food for the reception. Please offer her any assistance you are able to provide. She can soon announce a time for the camp members to meet for Pennsic planning now that Pennsic preregistration is almost complete.

Our Barony is fortunate to once again see Earl Sir Christopher and Countess Morgen as Their Royal Highnesses; we ask that our Barony assist them in the many ways that help our Royalty. Please contact THL Alessandra d'Avignon to volunteer to help with retaining, largesse, and other aid.

We add our voices to our Baronial Herald, THL Brandubh o Donnghaile, and ask that gentles interested in announcing our courts and other heraldic responsibilities please contact him. The Comet Pursuivant is an Officer of great importance to the running of the Barony. The duties include helping to run Barony meetings and this will change to once every other month, hopefully by this fall. Related to that, please look over the proposed changes to Baronial Laws and Policies into which the Officers have put much time and effort.

We wish you all good luck and health in your next month with all the admirable endeavors for which the populace of the Barony Marche of Debatable Lands is known.

Written one week prior to the Sunderoak Golden Chain Tournament,

Byron and Ariella

Baron and Baroness

from the Comet Pursuivant

Greetings from Brandubh, Comet Pursuivant

I come to you today with a request. My second term of office expires in January 2009, and at present I have no drop dead deputy. I seek individuals who are interested in taking up the office of Herald at the end of the year. The office of herald takes a commitment of time at events to conduct courts and collect scrolls and do court preparations with Their Excellencies. It also requires attendance at Barony and Officers Meetings and writing of court reports outside of events. I strongly encourage any interested parties to contact me and make time to work with me at barony meetings and at at least one event this summer or fall so that some degree of training may occur. It is a very rewarding position, working in conjunction with Their Excellencies, being able to play a part in giving awards to your friends, and always being able to hear what was said in court. Any interested parties please contact me so that we may discuss the office further.

Sincerely,

Brandubh O'Donnghaile

from the Chronicler

Greetings from Anna!

You might notice that there is less contact information in this issue of The Althing. Because The Althing is now being published on-line, we must adhere to the standards set forth by the SCA electronic publication policy. This means I must have written permission to publish your legal name, your personal e-mail address, and your phone number in The Althing.

I'll be contacting all of the officers and guild contacts affected by this to obtain their permission.

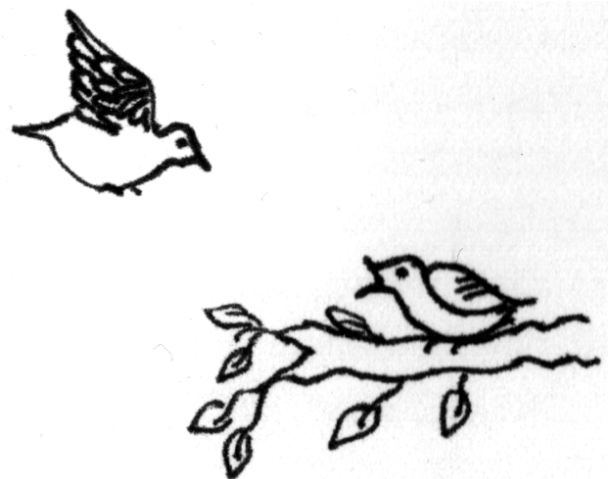

This also means that event announcements have to be truncated for the time being, until I can find out if I am required to contact gentles who have their legal name, e-mail address and phone number listed in event announcements already available on the web for their permission to post that information on our website.

I am in desperate need of two things:

- 1) COVER ART
- 2) A deputy

Please contact me in regard to either need.

In service,
Anna Malakina

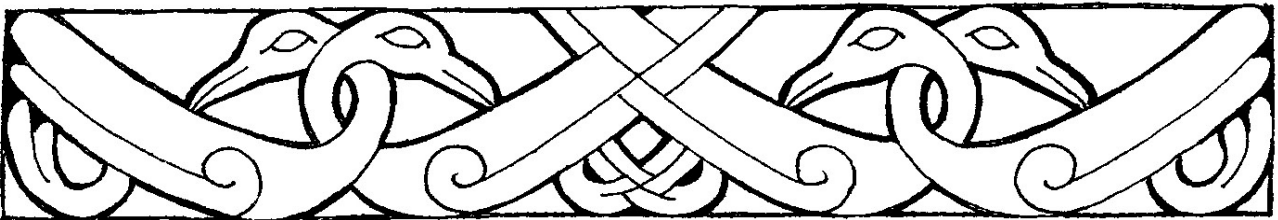

from the Captain of Archers,

I'm happy to say it looks like we will have regular archery practices through Pennsic. I'm not planning any more away weekends until then.

Congratulations to THL Fintan Na Coiled. He had just accepted the position of Captain-General of Archers for the Kingdom. Thanks to THL Loachlain for his service. Additionally, I have replaced Fintan as the Region 2 Deputy Marshall.

Finally, my second term of office is up in September of this year. If anyone wishes to succeed me, please contact me or Seneshal Fredeburg to find out the requirements of the position.

In service to the Barony-Marche,
Urho Waltterinen

About the Order of Precedence

By Anna Malakina, based on information from Brandubh

You might wonder why the Prince and Princess of Æthelmearc are not listed first in the baronial order of precedence, despite residing in the Barony. I did, so I contacted the Baronial Herald and asked.

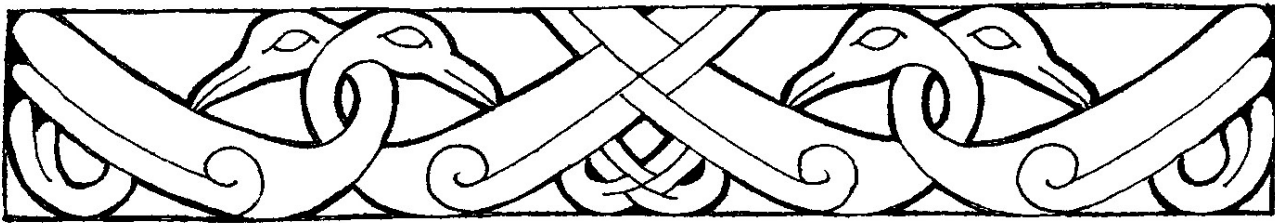

The short answer is that a baronial order of precedence only lists awards, not positions of rank.

The highest award that a member of any barony can hold (within that barony) is to be Baron or Baroness of the land.

Prince, Princess, King, and Queen are not awards, but positions of high rank. The award associated with having been King or Queen is duke, duchess, count, or countess. Those awards do hold rank within the baronial order of precedence.

If we were to line up in order of precedence, our Prince and Princess would, of course, be first, but at that point, we would be ordering by kingdom order of precedence, not baronial.

If you have any further questions, or want to know more about the intricacies of precedence, contact Brandubh.

English Land Tenure: An Acre of Land

By Dani of the Seven Wells

Acres serve as a useful shorthand when discussing the who's who (and who's not) of England, at all but the upper reaches of society. If a man is said to have held a couple of hundred acres, we understand that he was probably an esquire, or a petty knight. If another man is said to have held thirty acres, we understand that he was probably a relatively-wealthy peasant. A five-acre holding probably meant a peasant who hired himself out, because five acres won't feed a family. In order to understand this shorthand, we need knowledge that everyone would have had at the time: What is an acre? What can you do with it? What does it cost?

An acre is a plot of land about 9/10 the area of a football field. Like a football field, it has a specific shape. Today we use 'acre' purely as a unit of area, but in period it was a plot of land 22 yards wide by 220 yards long – less than half the football field's width by more than double its length. Thus we see period references to “the width of an acre” or “the time it takes to walk an acre”.

There seems to be a consensus that the acre's size came from its function: It was the amount of land that a team of eight oxen could plow in one day. It was also the right shape for the activity. 220 yards was a furlong (as in “furrow long”) – about the distance you'd want your oxen to pull the plow before giving them a bit of a break. It takes a day to plow an acre because at the end of the 220-yard pull you've plowed a strip about a foot wide. You have to go back and forth about three dozen times to plow the entire acre. (You want your acre to be long and skinny because turning a team of oxen with a plow is a pain. Peasants were usually allocated farmland in long thin strips.) Conveniently, 22 yards is the length of four ox-goads, so a plowman could measure the width of an acre with his 16-1/2 foot ox-goad.

The most important crop was wheat. Wheat is typically measured in bushels (50-60 pounds, depending on various factors) and quarters (8 bushels, about a quarter of a ton). It takes about 2 bushels of grain to plant an acre of wheat, and in a moderately-good year 8 bushels might be harvested from that acre. In bad years, those two bushels of seed might yield as little as four bushels of wheat. By way of comparison, a bushel of modern seed grain will yield over twenty bushels of wheat, and yields of 50 bushels per acre are common.

If we save 25% of the crop for next year's seed, an acre yields about 6 bushels of grain for consumption. So a farmer with fifteen acres and a two-course rotation (that is, with half the land fallow in each year) would have about 45 bushels of wheat per year – before taxes. (This is an abstraction. The farmer in question would actually plant a mix of crops, herd a few animals, tend a garden, and have some access to woods or meadows.) 45 bushels will feed a small family with a bit left over.

That brings us back to the aforementioned shorthand. If you held 30 acres, you were a comfortable peasant, albeit probably a serf. If you held 15 acres, you were holding your head above water, but a bad harvest could do a lot of harm. In the thirteenth century, about half the peasants held far less than fifteen acres.

Reference: Excerpts from Walter of Henley's "Husbandry" – a thirteenth-century manual for estate management – may be found online at <http://www.fordham.edu/halsall/source/1275manors1.html> <http://www.fordham.edu/halsall/source/1275manors1.html>. You may consider the numbers he gives indicative, but don't trust them too far. They're optimistic.
